

Skellig Blurb

Skellig performs Irish, Québécois, Scandinavian and original music, with a side journey or two always a possibility! Members Rachel Clark and Bob DeMarco of the band Wind that Shakes the Barley join John Drury, a veteran of the Québécois and New England folk scene, blending their talents as a trio with happy results. Featuring Irish flute, whistles, fiddle, accordion, guitar, cittern and voice, Skellig explores the rich terrain of traditional music with spirit and imagination. Their warm and enlivening shows have delighted audiences at the New World Festival, the Strafford Summer Artist Series, The Music Box, and The Canoe Club, among other local venues. Hear samples of their music at <http://skelligvt.com>.